IN THE SOCIAL REALM

The centuries echo throughout with verses attuned to the gayety of Saint Valentine's Festival. So it is that Drayton, the Elizabethan, writes of February 14th:

"Muse, hid the morn awake,
Bad winter now declines,
Bach bird doth choose a mate,
The day's Saint Valentine's

For that good bishop's sake
Get up, and let us see What beauty it shall be
That fortune us assigns," Bliss Carman, a twentieth century poet, has the voice of modernity in contrast, yet he also has some very pretty paragraphs concerning the guardian of adolescence and the successor of Cupid, and expresses himself, anent the Saint, after this fathion:

expresses himself, the detection of the fashion:

"Make your vows on Saint Valentine's morn, gentlemen and friends! I promise you great joy from their fulfillment. Be not ashamed of the fanatical enthusiasms of love and make your penance for sins, of negligence, of thoughtlessness, of unkindness, preparatory to the golden hours of surfus.

of negligence, of thoughtest of spring.

For on Saint Valentine's morning, if you will take my word for it, our venerable Mother Nature goes to her closet and takes down her green cloak, which before many weeks she will resume for the pageantry of April. Had we not better look over our own wardrobe of the heart also?

"The dust of familiarity and the moth of doubt play sad havoe with the soul's garment of love. And when the appointed day arrives, and the feast of Springtime is instituted once more—when the sap comes back to the hills, and the madness of love to the heart of man,—we must not be found unprepared. Every heart must have in readiness its scarlet tunic and its golden coat, for how more appropriately can it be dothed than with love and joy."

February is the valentine anniversary month but it's arrival has been pre-saged with whirling snow storms that have left w ahite world behind, with the promise of springtime hidden from sight promise of springtime hidden from sight and sense.

The second of February is Candlemas Day, when in the Roman Catholic Church, there is a candle procession, to consecrate all the candles which will be needed in the church during the year. The canales symbolize Christ "the light of the world," and "a light to lighten the Gentiles."

It is said that if the weather is fine and frosty at the close of January and the beginning of February, we may look for more winter to come than we have seen up to that time.

The old Scotch proverb emphasizing this idea declares:

idea declares:

"If Candlemas Day be dry and fair, The half o' winter's come and mair; If Candlemas Day be wet and foul, The half o' winter was gane at Youl."

According to German folk-lore the badger peeps out of his hole on Candlemas Day, and if he finds snow, walks abroad; if he sees the sun shining he draws back re sees the service of the month is the month of the month. The Dutch of old called it "vegetation month," and the ancient Saxons the "sprouting month," or "the month of the returning eun."

month." or. "the month of the returning eun."

The gem symbol of the month is the amethyst, the emblem of peace of mind and sobriety. It is worthy of remembrance that the amethyst is the erowning stone in the wall of the New Jerusalem, and is said to stand for the union and the beauties of all the others.

February is rich in the matter of Important dates. Next Thursday, the 4th, will be the forty-third anniversary of the formation of the Southern Confederacy, in 1861. February 16th will be Shrove Tuesday in Virginia and Mardi Gras in New Orleans. Ash Wednesday will be the next day, February 17th, when society will turn its back on "the world, the flesh and the devil," and enter upon the penitential season of Lent. All good Americans keep Washington's anniversary on the 22d. The cherry tree is planted, the hatchet is brought forth, and unquestioning faith in the "Father of his Country" sets the iconoclast at defiance.

Probably maidens who prize their privalets of all, for February 29th is Leap Year, when it behooves bachelor debutantes to keep closely housed and so avoid the danger of a proposal.

Leap Year German.

Four of the most charming young girls in the city—Miss Lucy Skelton, Miss May Goolsby, Miss Rebecca Walker and Miss Leisa Archer—are directing a Leap Year subscription german, to be given in Belvidere Hall the night of February 9th, from 3 to 1 o'clock.

IN WASHINGTON SOCIETY MRS. RIXEY A FAVORITE

The central committee of the Associa-tion for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities will meet Tuesday, February 2d, at 4 P. M., in the rooms of the Vir-ginia Historical Society. (Special Correspondence of The Times-Dispatch.)

(Special Correspondence of The Times-Dispatch.)

(WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 30.—The wife of Representative John F. Rixey, of Virginia, is one of the most charming and cultivated women known in the social life of Washington, and she has been accustomed to official society from her girl-hood. Her uncle, Hon. John S. Barbour, made his home in Washington for many years, formerly as president of the Southern Railway and subsequently as senator of the United States, and a great part of that time his niece, then Miss Barbour, now Mrs. John F. Rixey, sojourned with him. Both the Rixey and Barbour families are representative of the Old Dominion. At one time before the Civil War, a large number of the Barbour family were in active official life, among them, one on the Supreme Court bench; another, Speaker of the House; another, minister to England; and still another, Governor of Virginia.

Representative and Mrs. Rixey have four children, two girls and two boys. The cidest daughter was introduced to society at a tea given in the early part of the season. On February 12th, the circle will give a Saint Valentine's fets in the hespitable home of Mrs. J. S. Moon, No. 2207 East Broad Street.

Like the good old-fashioned concert, this fete is divided into two parts. The first and primary part will be the raising of money for the poor fund. The second will be purely social, and will be devoted to entertaining of the evening's guests with many novel features.

The valentines will all be sweetly sentimental, the decorations in Saint Valentine's colors, while the tendecest of hearts and keenest of arrows will be much in evidence.

Furs—to be Closed Out at Cost.

The Fur will fly, now that the prices have been reduced so greatly. Remember when buying choice Furs, that you buy these luxuries but seldom, therefore, they must be reliable skins and perfectly made. We pride ourselves on our Furs. Success has proved the reliability of the kind we sell. Now, you can afford to buy and lay aside for another season, though there are many cold days ere the spring forces itself upon us.

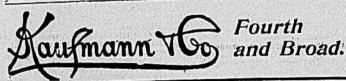

Winter Coats Half Price.

We still have quite a few fine and medium grade Winter Coats on hand, and should you be fortunate enough to find your size, you will be sure of securing a very big bargain, as cost is not considered in trying to unload these garments, to make room for Spring Coats that are coming in daily.

Many pretty things are still on hand in Girl's Coats and it is wise to buy for next winter at these prices.

Knitted Wear and Winter Underwear.

The present cold snap and wintry winds quickly finds the weak spots and points a moral to heavier Undergarments. We have the best qualities in Fleece Lined Vests and Pants, Leggins, of all kinds and Knitted Wear, for the children, of all ages, It it not economy to let yourself or little ones catch cold. Buy while the prices permit you to get two garments at the price you would ordinarily pay for one.

SAN BLAS INDIANS ARE AGGRESSIVE

Make an Attempt to Attack United States Gunboat Bancroft.

(By Associated Press.)

COLON, Jan. 30,-The United States gunboat Bancroft arrived here to-day from the San Blas coast. She reports the attitude of the San Blas Indians at Caledonia Bay to be not only unfriendly, but decidedly aggressive. Last Tuesday men from one of the Bancroft's boats insisted upon purchasing a few cocoanuts from the Indians, and paid more than full value for them. Towards 11 o'clock that night, when it was dark, twenty canoes were seen apthe Bancroft. The gunboat turned her searchlight on the canoes and it was revealed that the boats held as many indians as could crowd in, prob-ably 200 in all. All the men were armed as many indians as could crowd in, probably 200 in all. All the men were armed with bows and arrows, guns of quaint and old patterns and other weapons. Their faces were besmeared with paint. There is no doubt that their intentions were lostile. They hoped to reach and surprise the ship. The commander of the Bancroft ordered the gunboat cleared for action, and her guns were loaded and trimmed ready for use. A quick firing colt was placed near the gangway, and orders were given to the gunners to this place to keep up a ceuseless fire all around the canoes. As soon as the Indians heard this rain of bullets they finmediately began retreating towards the shore. The gunners were given express or shore. The gunners were given express or-ders not to fire at the Indians, so the bullets cut the air and churned up the water all around them. No shots were fired at the Bancroft, which once sailed for Colon to bring in the report of the occurrence.
